Compton recommends $350,000 goal for Georgetown hospital drive

J. H. "Buster" Compton officially accepted appointment to head the fund drive for a new Georgetown hospital Thursday night.

As his first act, the new chairman recommended a drive goal of $350,000 to the Georgetown Hospital Authority Board and predicted the money could be raised within 14 months.

Compton was tapped to become chairman of the "Development Fund" drive after he was nominated by a GHA steering committee composed of Charles A. Forbes, Dr. Robert McKay, and Wallace Evans.

GHA president Jay Sloan commented, "there are not better hands the drive could be put into," in naming Compton to spearhead the effort.

Forbes said, "we need not add any accolades to his accomplishments."

Compton admitted the prospect of trying to raise more than a quarter of a million dollars in cash contributions and pledges frightened him at first, but thanked the Hospital Authority Board for its confidence in appointing him to the top drive spot.

The campaign chief also predicted the project "will be easy to sell to the citizens of Georgetown" and expressed confidence $350,000 can be raised to secure a 2.95 million loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

The steering committee reported that conferences with FmHA officials in Temple recently had left them confident the loan can be obtained to build and equip a three-story, 66-bed facility west of I-35.

Under the 1974 Rural Development Act, the FmHA was given authority to loan money for the construction of hospitals.

But FmHA officials have stipulated that the Hospital Authority must come up with 25% of a $2.95 million construction loan, or about $740,000, to fulfill the agency's "community participation" requirement.

Assets owned by Georgetown doctors, including the present hospital, the 6-acre site of the proposed hospital, and medical equipment will earn the GHA $426,000 immediate credit toward the 25% figure. During the time it would take to construct the hospital, GHA officials say the value of the credit would rise to $525,000, leaving the Authority approximately $225,000 short of the required amount.

The hospital itself would be a three-story structure east of I-35 and north of R.M. 2243, which would accommodate at least 60 beds. Eventually the hospital could be expanded to include two more floors and up to 150 beds.

According to a master plan for the facility, additional medical buildings could also be constructed nearby, and a doctors' clinic would be built adjacent to the hospital.

Thursday night the Authority Board's steering committee reported that FmHA officials had said the loan is "99.44% guaranteed" to be approved if pledges amounting to the 25% requirement can be gained.

"Short of having the money in hand," Forbes said, "we couldn't have a governmental agency any more committed to helping us."

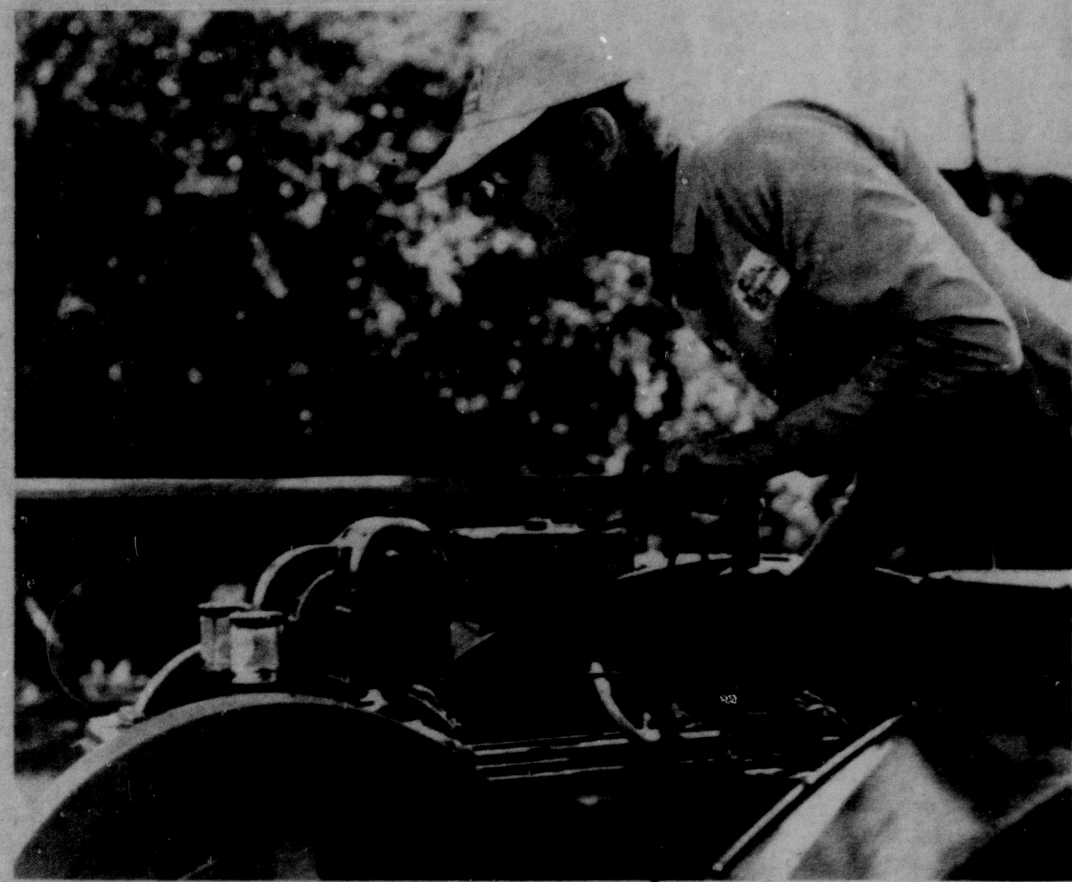

If the FmHA approves the loan, the Hospital Authority would pay the debt service with revenues from hospital operations.

Compton recommended to the Board that work begin immediately to launch the fund drive by setting a goal for the effort, a deadline for collection, and a plan of action to raise the money. He suggested the Board set $350,000 as the goal for the campaign.

After the meeting Compton predicted to reporters the money could be raised within about 14 months.

Round Rock Chamber struggles to keep ambulance service

The Round Rock Chamber of Commerce has made a plea to the Williamson County Commissioners' Court to continue operation of the county's ambulance station there.

Commissioners hinged last Friday that the station, which is operated under contract with the City of Round Rock, may be cancelled in 1976 because of high costs involved in its operations. Their reasoning was based on figures presented to them which showed the station had fewer calls and a higher cost per call than any other unit in the county.

Through September 30, the Round Rock unit made 185 calls at a cost of $20,960.37, or $113 per call. Lowest was $37.45 per call made by volunteers at Florence.

The court's reasoning however, wasn't limited to cost considerations. They felt Round Rock could be serviced by the Georgetown unit in emergencies.

The Round Rock Chamber of Commerce feels differently about the need and notified commissioners this week urging them to continue to provide the community with full-time protection.

In a letter to the court, Larry Jackson, chamber president said, "We consider the Round Rock station of vital importance to this community. The fact that it is growing so rapidly adds even more significance to the need for this station in the immediate future."

Jackson also noted in the letter that the community recognizes and supports the need for the station and pointed to a recent vote that will allow accommodations for an ambulance station in the city's proposed fire and police station.

He concluded, "We respectfully urge you to continue to provide our community with the protection of the full-time professional emergency personnel and equipment of the Round Rock Ambulance Unit."

The commissioners will continue their discussion of the ambulance at the next meeting of the court scheduled for 10 a. m. Monday.

Council eyes short agenda

Georgetown City Councilmen have an apparently simple agenda awaiting them for a regular meeting at 7 p. m. Monday in the Council Room at City Hall.

Six recommendations from the Planning and Zoning Commission will be considered, and the Council will determine whether the city's "fuel adjustment" charge on electrical bills will go over 100% of the base rate.

Asst. City Manager W. L. Walden said Friday no determination had been made of what this month's fuel adjustment charge will be.

The Council will hear the second readings of ordinances to establish a city-county zoning board for Municipal Airport and to allow Harold Parker to abandon a golf cart easement off Williams Drive.

Other matters scheduled for consideration include annexation of property between College Street, the MK& T Railroad lines, and the San Gabriel River; an Urban Renewal Agency request to abandon 30 feet of Third Street; two commercial rezoning requests presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night, and a request by Harlan Ford to construct a second building on a lot at 801 Country Club Road.

Review of the city audit for 1974-75, originally set for Monday, was postponed until December 8.

It appears the SUN has the same influence on the weather that it does the electorate.

We strongly endorsed proposition 5 in the proposed constitution and nobody voted that way. Then we stoutly endorsed a good rain and what do we have? Clear skies. We are undaunted, however. We endorsed Thanksgiving and Christmas and we aren't about to give up.

PIRATE COACH JOHN EDWARDS looked a little blue when I talked with him early in the week and I can sympathize. He has the toughest schedule facing his new and untried Pirates that anyone could imagine for a small college. Edwards has been a winner all of his coaching career, however, and everyone knows his Pirates will perform to the peak of their ability.

It is incredible how much it is costing the county (and customers) for ambulance service, which is an illustration of how a well-meaning government can foul up things. Here in Williamson County our funeral homes had, for the past fifty years or so, gladly provided this service, at no cost to the taxpayers and minimal cost to those who required the service. Then the government stepped in with incredible guidelines and suddenly the service is so expensive that not even the county can afford to provide it.

Week's news in a nutshell

DR. ERNEST WEISS, A WESLEYAN RESIDENT, received the Republic of Korea's highest civilian honor Tuesday for his service to the country from 1954 to 1974.

Dr. Weiss, a retired medical missionary, received the Seogryu Medal from Korean Consul General Kim in ceremonies at Southwestern University.

Kim commended the doctor for rebuilding, improving and expanding medical facilities and education in Korea immediately following the Korean War.

Dr. Weiss was a professor of surgery and director of building and development for the Yonsei Medical Center in Seoul.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY VOTERS joined the rest of the state in turning down the proposed constitution Tuesday.

About one-fourth of the county's 18,500 registered voters rejected all eight proposals by a two to one margin.

Thirty-two of the county's 34 precincts voted strongly against all eight provisions. Proposition Five (pertaining to financing) received the approval of only two precincts — Circleville and Coupland. Circleville also approved Proposition Seven (general provisions article) by one vote.

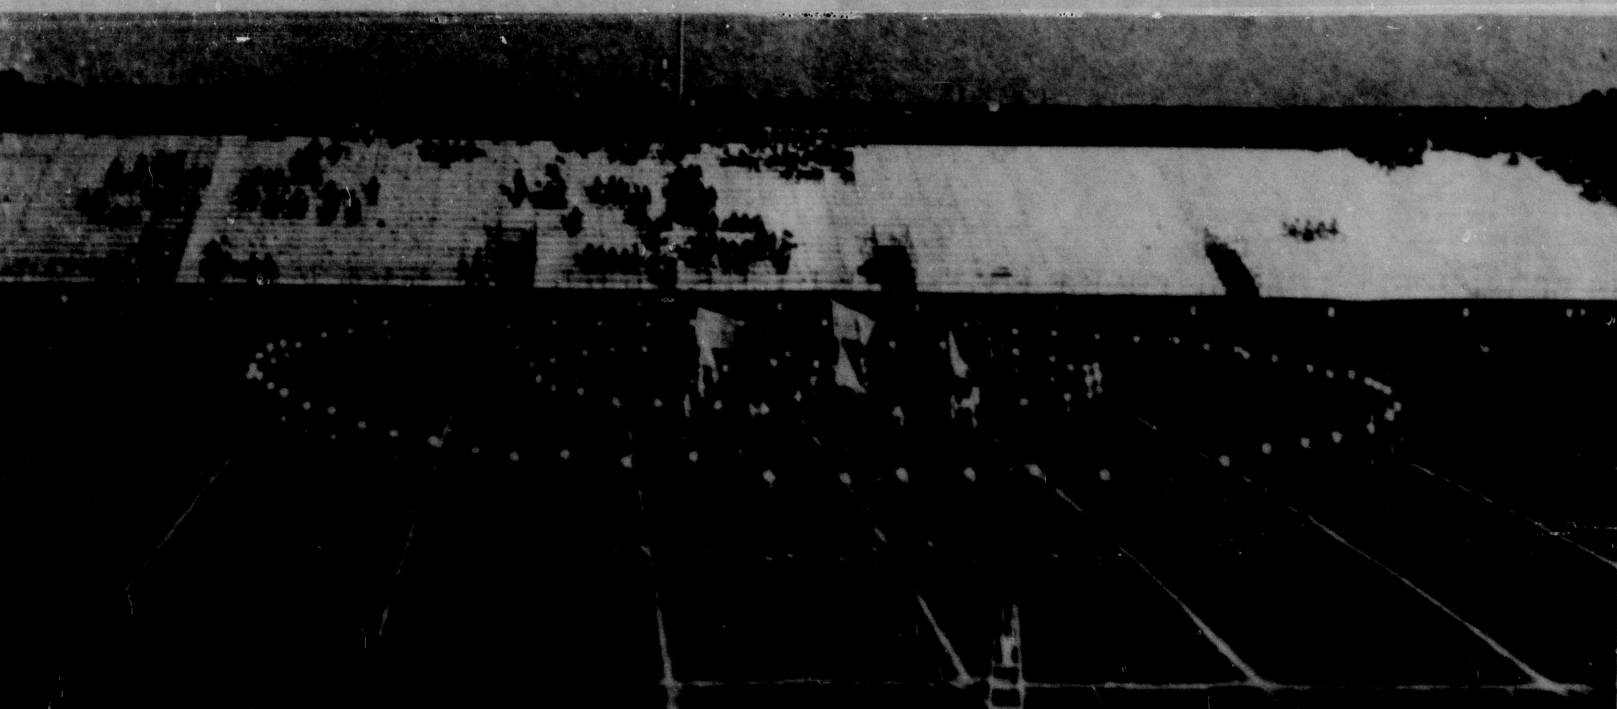

GEORGETOWN UTILITIES CUSTOMERS may soon pay more for telephone service.

General Telephone Company of the Southwest informed members of the Georgetown City Council last week that it will seek Council permission to raise phone rates in order to generate $106,392 additional gross income annually from Georgetown and Jarrell.

The phone company notified Councilmen of the impending request in a letter October 29 and sent along a 16 page study of revenues and expenses over a one-year period to justify its plea.

Carl Kinslow, GenTel's customer services manager in LaGrange, said Monday that his company simply is not realizing a fair return on its investment in the Georgetown-Jarrell area.

He said that GenTel has not yet asked for a place on the Council's meeting agenda to formally request the increase but would try to present its case to councilmen informally until after the November meeting that will be held Monday night.

Saturday, the Millers will host members of the Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association for a meeting which is expected to draw almost all of the associations 100 members.

The chance to meet with other inveterate collectors to talk and look for parts will be one reason for the good turn out, but the Millers' collection of tractors—which is the largest in Texas — will be the main attraction.

Louis Miller says he got the idea to start his collection over 10 years ago after a local new car dealer bought a Model T. Because his livelihood is tractors, he bought an old John Deere model and thought it might be worth more if it could run. So he made the necessary repairs to put it in operating condition.

Fifty tractor purchases later Miller admits collecting tractors isn't for everyone.

"You got to get hooked on this stuff," he says. A tractor collector must be a mover who travels extensively to find any of the old machines that are fast fading away. They must set out, as the Millers do every weekend, searching for the few that might be around.

Louis has put over 153,000 miles on a 1969 truck driving through the countryside stopping at farms and junkyards to make purchases or acquire information on tractor whereabouts.

He says he loves to go off to a part of the state he hasn't searched before. Once he breaks the ice and gets people to talk to him, it's usually downhill from there. They may refer him to someone else, but if there are any tractors around he'll find someone who knows.

While the fundamental idea of internal combustion tractor engines has been basic, the body and other parts have undergone considerable change in construction and design. After collecting the old machines for 10 and one-half years, the Millers have become authorities on their peculiar construction and often describe them when showing visitors the collection kept at their workshop on Eighth Street in Georgetown.

Nelson trial denied venue change plea

A motion for a change of venue for Crackerjack Productions has been denied by Special County Judge James Miles.

The decision was announced Thursday by Miles, a Taylor attorney substituting for Williamson County Judge C. L. Chance, at a pre-trial hearing. The hearings are being held for charges which allege that Crackerjack Productions, a corporation owned by Willie Nelson, violated the Texas Mass Gatherings Act in July.

Tim Herman, representing the corporation, requested last Friday that the trial be moved from Williamson County on the plea that a fair trial would not be possible. Two witnesses he called to testify on his client's behalf cited biased news coverage of Willie Nelson's Fourth of July Picnic as reasons why they thought a fair trial was impossible.

After denial of the motion was announced, the trial date was set for December 8.

Miles was appointed to hear the case after County Judge disqualified himself on the request of Herman.

President Ford, going around the country saying all the right things, still barely holds his own in the popularity ratings.

That has to reflect one of three things: Either he lacks the magic appeal we call "charisma." Or else we, the people, are just sick and tired of politicians.

Or could it be that we, like Pavlovian animals, really respond enthusiastically only to the people who promise us more and more something-for-nothing? Democracy won't work.

This is not intended to disparage our country. Ours is not a "democracy," and it was never intended to be. In a democracy everybody votes on everything. That's mob rule. So you will not find the word "democracy" in our Constitution, nor in our Declaration of Independence, nor in any of our several state constitutions. Not once.

Ours is a representative republic.

In a republic we elect men to make decisions in our behalf. It was presumed we would elect our best men. Recently, unfortunately, we have tended to elect men our own size. And then we expect them to be something more than we are.

Americans were sobered recently to see a four-year study by the U. S. Office of Education which should put to rest forever the nonsense about "all men being equal."

It was determined that one in five adult Americans is functionally illiterate.

That means when it comes to reading, writing and arithmetic—such things as counting money, making change, understanding taxes and insurance and drivers' licenses—20% of adult Americans just can't cope.

In the findings, males and females were about equally unequal.

But 16% of white persons, 44% of blacks and 56% of our Latin Americans are functionally incompetent.

That's 23 million Americans who cannot even read and understand the help-wanted ads!

That should explain a couple of things.

And most of these presumably are still able to make an "x" on a ballot.

And that could explain a lot of things. Democracy won't work.

Indeed, the average individual is incapable of governing himself—much less participating in the governing of others. Nor does "more education" necessarily guarantee better government.

Prof. Ivor Mills of the university of Cambridge is among those who believe we may already be demanding too much of the human brain, creating a brain strain resulting in depression which, in turn, breeds escapism—in any direction, from loud music to lawbreaking.

It was the hope of our nation's architects—themselves exceptional individuals—that our national destiny would be entrusted only to our most uncommon men.

We must seek and find and encourage and respect and elect those men again.

GOTHAM NEEDS CRAWFORD

Now that we have the constitution matter behind us, we can concentrate all of our attention on New York.

It is not every day that a 2 by 4 family weekly can tell the biggest city in the nation how it ought to run its business affairs. It is a heady experience!

WE WOULD LIKE TO SUGGEST to Mayor Beame that he call on Georgetown Mayor Joe Crawford for advice, rather than on Washington congressmen. After all, Crawford is running his city safely in the black. Compare this to how the congressmen are doing in Washington.

Unlike our state constitutional revision issue, the New York problem isn't likely to go away quickly. It will be here for editorial writers to mess with for years, or, at least, months.

Some New Yorkers are now singing a slightly different tune. A few are coming up with the until-now-unheard-of-thought that New York has the resources to solve its own problems, even if President Ford and Uncle Sam do say "drop dead," to quote the New York Daily News headline.

Mayor Beame isn't singing that song, however. He is still working, and appears to be making some headway, for massive transfusions of federal money, or at least guarantees. The Harris Poll, which contacts about 750 people throughout the United States and from this contends it can tell what the whole nation is thinking, says there is increasing sentiment for federal aid to Gotham, news that is bound to be cheering to the embattled mayor. On the other hand, President Ford says he'll veto any such bill and introduces guide-lines and safeguards that New Yorkers say are quite impossible.

Your guess is as good as any on how it will all turn out.

ONE THING YOU CAN BET ON—the country will be the worse off, thanks to political leaders who knuckled under to organized labor, minorities and the banking industry.

But, this too will pass. Perhaps there will be a lesson taught and learned. We hope so but we are keeping our fingers crossed. Undoubtedly, the fall of New York would send out ripples of consternation all across the land. On the other hand, a bail-out by the rest of the country would provide a clear go-ahead signal to bad and extravagant city politicians everywhere. To come out winner in such a complicated struggle requires a mighty innovative game plan and precise play execution, as the coaches say.

We can watch and wait. We can also drop a line to our national elected officials—Congressmen Pickle and Poage, Senators Tower and Bentsen and even to President Ford. These people appreciate individual input. Mostly all they hear is from organized lobbies representing special interests.

Television news studied for quality and impact on viewers

The Tin Kazoo: Television, Politics, and the News, by Edwin Diamond. Cambridge, Massachusetts and London: The MIT Press. 269 pp. $9.95 in U.S.; £5 in England.

By Leon W. Lindsay

The "tin kazoo" is your television set. It is most unlikely, if you live in the United States, that you do not have at least one TV. Edwin Diamond observes: "By the mid-1970s, some 97 percent of all American homes had at least one television set; almost one in every three households had two or more sets."

Books

No wonder the TV was dubbed the "people machine" and "crowd catcher."

With the average set in use for something like six hours a day, Mr. Diamond notes, the belief grew that the mass audience—the "Wad," Norman Mailer called it—could be sold anything via video. Convinced that with enough cash almost any candidate for office could "buy" an election by buying television time, Congress and state legislatures voted restrictions on campaign spending—most of which, it is assumed would go for TV exposure.

But wait, says MIT lecturer Diamond: the mid-1970s audience is not the audience of the mid-1950s (as Richard Nixon might well testify). Television today is more appliance than wonder in all those households. Research cited by Mr. Diamond, indicates that even though TV sets are turned on across the U.S., the householders are not necessarily "tuned in."

He asks: Is it possible television is "less than meets the eye?"—and that is the title of his second chapter in this well-reasoned examination of television news, its impact, and the form and substance of the news programs.

No dry research report, this small volume has pace and readability that should make it interesting to the "average" person. News media professionals definitely should spend an hour or so checking out its findings and suggestions.

Mr. Diamond is a visiting lecturer in the MIT department of political science and co-director of the MIT News Study Group, which conducted some of the research that bases this book. A veteran journalist, he still is active in both the print and broadcasting fields. The author's experience and insight give validity to most of his findings and suggestions, which are chiefly directed at network news organizations. Among them:

• It is time for TV news to quit taking the advice of "show doctors"—audience experts who treat news programs about the same as variety shows and whose advice has resulted in much cosmetic change, especially in local news formats. The executives and the newsmen for the networks know what needs to be done, Mr. Diamond suggests, and it's time now to act.

• The networks, following the example of the locals in at least one instance, should seriously consider lengthening the evening news to an hour. Assessing the performances of the three major network news organizations in covering some of the biggest stories of recent times, the author makes clear a major flaw of network news: the abbreviated, thus somewhat distorted, story. Only CBS comes close to a creditable performance in meaningful coverage of such stories as Watergate and the 1972 campaign.

Says Mr. Diamond: "The 'CBS News with Walter Cronkite' made the most visible departure from the older canons of television news; in the face of cynical data about the short attention span of the audience, CBS did long, more demanding stories touching on the presidential campaign."

MIT News Study Group research also clearly shows that CBS was the only one of the "big three" that gave immediate, lengthy coverage of the aftermath of the Watergate break-in.

One of the most interesting and perhaps timely of Mr. Diamond's suggestions is that the networks should somehow find time to move the evening news into "prime time." He argues that the audience would be there and that the impact of the news (provided some other suggested reforms are instituted) would be greatly increased. This reviewer agrees.

The reaction of most leaders for constitutional revision right after the election was that there would be no point in trying again for several years at least. But some went back to the idea of submitting one article each two years to the voters, which some conservatives have felt all along would be the better way to approach revision.

Others will play with the idea of asking the Legislature to ask the voters to call a new Constitutional Convention made up of citizens who do not hold public office. The experience of Illinois, Maryland and other states has been that the voters will buy a citizens' constitution after turning down a legislators' constitution. It might perhaps be the old cartoon of "would you buy a used car from this man?" and the answer is that the public is more likely to buy from the public than from those immersed in the business of state government.

But decisions can't be made now. The voters will say what's to be done, in 1976, by voting for candidates who want to do what the electorate wants to do about constitutional revision—if, indeed, they want anything at all done about constitutional revision.

Indications are strong that 1975 was a year in which the voters didn't want to do anything about constitutional revision. At least, they didn't want to do anything like what had been proposed this time. You can't argue with nearly 900,000 "noes."

AUSTIN — "No, no, a million times no. We'd rather die than say yes."

That was the word the Texas Legislature got from the voters, who slapped flat the new and modernized constitution Tuesday.

The Legislature which wrote the discredited document in two years of hard work may be wondering if the same resounding "no" will be echoing against them if and when they run again in 1976.

Speculation in 1974 that the voters would turn out the Legislature which spent half a year in session and failed to produce a new constitution was smothered when virtually all of the legislators of 1974 who ran again were re-elected. Only one senator and four House members were defeated.

Now, perhaps, that can be interpreted as a vote of approval of their failure as a Constitutional Convention, to submit a new document to the voters.

If so, then will the voter reaction in 1976 be just the opposite—a turn-'em-out attitude on the part of voters who submitted a new constitution which was so distasteful that only a bare handful of counties gave a majority vote to even one of the eight propositions.

And, on the other hand, the state officials who supported it so warmly can be grateful that they do not have to face the voters in 1976 because of the switch to four-year terms.

Defeat of the new constitutional proposals will mean, of course, that there will be elections in 1976 for members of the two high courts, the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals. Had the judiciary article been adopted and the two high courts combined, it might have been six or eight years before there would have been an opening for the new high court. Defeat of that proposition means that Justices Martin Dies Jr., of the Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals and Charles W. Barrow can get on with their races for the Supreme Court they had announced early this year.

Of course, there is the problem of Associate Justice Ross Doughty of Uvalde, now serving in the place Associate Justice Ruel Walker held.

If Doughty should decide to run for a full six-year term, the two younger men would be up against a decision of taking on an incumbent, even though he is an appointed incumbent.

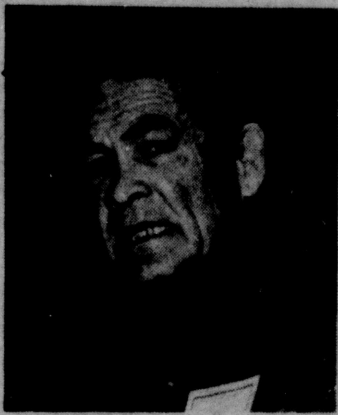

Of course, there are the 16 senators who were lucky on the draw and got four year terms in the 1975 drawing. But the other 15 senators and all 150 members of the House of Representatives will be facing the voters again in 1976 if they want to keep on making laws.

The list of those not planning to run again will be growing, since the prospect of an increase in the $128-a-week salary was dashed by the voters last Tuesday.

Jarrell School Board okays modifications

The Board of Directors of the Jarrell Independent School District approved some slight modifications of the school's football field Wednesday evening at its regular monthly meeting.

The modifications, which include moving the stadium's north bleachers and lights, became necessary because of the board's earlier decision to allow Jarrell football teams to participate in 11-man competition instead of six-man competition.

Eleven man teams play on a field that is 160 wide. The Jarrell field, presently laid out for six-man teams must be widened 40 feet, and upon the recommendation of Coach Donnie Brown, the Board agreed to take the extra playing surface from the north side of the stadium.

Members also agreed to have the north and east corners of the school's property surveyed and marked.

Jarrell will be competing in District 13-B for the first time next year. Two scrimmages and a 10 game football schedule are planned. Cougar teams will play in the district's South Zone with Holland, Hutto, Milano, Salado and Normangee. In the North Zone, Axtel, Chilton, Crawford, Bruceville-Eddy, Lorena and Valley Mills will be matched.

School district Superintendent A. L. Lytle told the board members that a recent decision by Attorney General John Hill wouldn't really hurt the district. The ruling said that school fees were unconstitutional.

However, he said it would require the district to absorb a $5 fee charged typing students for supplies and would necessitate moving driver training classes to the summer months rather than charging a fee for the course during the school year.

The board also approved the employment of two. Lillian Schwertner was hired for the school's cafeteria staff, and Alice Fay Oldham will be added to the teaching staff to replace Mrs. Charlotte Vancil who is moving from the area.

Jonestown R.A.'s present program National Week

The Royal Ambassadors of South Jonestown Baptist Church presented a program Sunday evening, November 2, at the church. The program was in conjunction with "National Royal Ambassador Week, November 2-8."

James Sites, a Pioneer, and Timmy Bryant, a Crusader, spoke briefly on "What R.A.s mean to Me." Jerry Harkey, R.A. director made the introductions. Bill Kreiger, Pioneer president, brought the message. He emphasized the importance of R.A.s and encouraged and challenged the adults of the church to support the Chapter.

The R. A. Choir was led by Counselor Leslie Dodd. Presentations of campcraft patches were made by Counselor Jimmy Brown. The program dismissed with prayer.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

PICK THE WINNERS AND WIN A PRIZE

Here's How You Play:

HERE WE GO AGAIN! It's football time -- and time for the annual County SUN Football Contest. If you're a Saturday morning armchair quarterback, you can enter this fun Contest and check up on yourself! Might even win a little money at it or a free theater ticket.

Here's a game to test your skill -- it's a game that the whole family can enjoy. Spread this page out on the kitchen table. Let everybody play. There'll be a new contest each week until about the middle of November. So ready, get set, GO!

- Win $10, $5, or $3 for first, second or third respectively.
- Next five winners may pick up a free ticket to the Palace Theater!
- Pick up all prizes and theater tickets at The SUN.
- The only notification of the winners will be in the following week's issue.
- See this week's football games on this page.
- In each game, check the team you think will win. (You do NOT need to indicate score).
- Unless all games are marked, your entry will be automatically disqualified.
- Then to eliminate as nearly as possible any ties in this fun-test, every entry must have the score marked on "The Tie Breaker" game listed at right.
- Only one entry per person will be qualified, but as many from a family may enter as wish to do so -- except employees and families of the Williamson County SUN.
- You may enter the fun-test on this page. Or you may copy the games on another sheet of paper, indicating your pick in each game.

Rezoning request sparks dispute

James Draeger's request for a zoning change generated opposition and friction Tuesday night at the usually sedate meeting of the Georgetown Planning and Zoning Commission.

Auto dealer Draeger was opposed by seven Main Street area property owners as he presented a request for commercial rezoning to the Commission.

Draeger asked that Commission members Fred Hilgeman, Toby Lierman, Andrew Prude, and Steve Almquist give their blessing to a rezoning of four Main Street lots from single-family residential homesites to commercial areas.

The four lots, two on each side of the intersection of Fifth and Main Streets, front on 406, 408, 502, and 504 Main.

Draeger did not state on the Commission's request form the purpose for which he sought the change.

In a petition urging the Commission to reject the change, 13 other surrounding property owners also indicated they thought Draeger would probably open a used-car lot on the site.

Draeger told the Commission the charge was baseless, saying he would probably eventually construct a garage building on the site for car service and repair.

Attorney William Lott represented those opposed to the request. He said his clients were "as strongly opposed as they can possibly be" to a rezoning which he said "certainly won't be conducive to a pleasant neighborhood."

Draeger answered that, "We have no firm plans for the lots except to eventually incorporate them into our business. As for putting anything detrimental to the area or the environment there, we won't."

Emzy Cooper, one of the opponents of the change, said any sort of commercial property at the site might generate traffic congestion and increased crime, and become an eyesore.

Signers of the petition against rezoning the property included Katie Lee Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Russell, A. W. Landrum, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hausenfluck, Lula J. Ogg, Corinna Patrick, C. Hall, M. L. Lish, M. L. Lester, and Albert S. Evans.

Mrs. D. M. Dickson, Ruby S. Snowden, Katie Cooper Lee, and Emzy and Lucille Cooper also returned statements to the Planning and Zoning Commission expressing objection to Draeger's request.

No decision had been made in the matter Thursday.

The Zoning Commission did, however, approve three other requests Tuesday. It will submit its recommendations to the City Council for consideration Monday. The Council makes a final decision on zoning matters.

Harlan L. Ford received approval of a request to construct a second building on a lot at 801 Country Club Road.

James L. King's request for a rezoning of four lots fronting north on Elm Street between Valley and Morrow streets was also approved. Those lots will be changed from single-family residential homesites to a commercial area for the retail sale and service of television sets.

The nod was also given to Georgetown Urban Renewal's proposal to abandon 30 feet of Third Street between Timber and West streets.

JONAH NEWS

BY MRS. MARY BARRINGTON

Every one has been enjoying this lovely fall weather we are having. Such beautiful days and cool nights. We had 2 of an inch of rain last Sunday. Some places had 2 or 3 inches.

We are so sorry to hear Mrs. Frank (Bethel) Montgomery of Georgetown is in St. David's Hospital in Austin. She was resting very well Tuesday. Mrs. Montgomery is Mr. Fletcher's daughter.

The H.D. Clubs of Williamson County went on an educational trip Tuesday, November 4.

The chartered bus left Georgetown at 8:30 a.m. The bus stopped at Jonah and Taylor for members going from these places.

At 10:30 a.m. we took a tour of the N. W. Faison home in LaGrange. We went from there to Monument Hill State Park in La Grange.

We had lunch at Cottonwood Inn in LaGrange.

Then we took a tour of Herkel Square in Round Top. From there we went to Winedale to an outdoor museum of Cultural History administered by the University of Texas at Austin.

We then left for home. We were getting a little tired by this time but had a most enjoyable day.

Those attending from Jonah were: Mrs. Carl Hausenfluke, Mrs. Nettie Satterfield, Miss Margaret Johnson, Mrs. Frances Brown, Mrs. Warren Sefcik, Mrs. "Wink" Roberts, Mrs. Ansel Holmstrom and Mrs. Mary Barrington.

Karen, Carol and Nancy Roberts, Vera Homesley and Kristi and Windy Orme went to a Halloween party Friday night and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Winston Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Murry Roberts and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Berry and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leach and family spent Sunday a week ago in the "Wink" Roberts home to help Frances celebrate her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Satterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Satterfield, Gary, Stevie, Michael and Kathy of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Satterfield, Travis and Tiffany of Houston, Jan Vath and Sharon (Sherri) Thigpen of California visited in the home of their mother and grandmother over the weekend and attended Mrs. Satterfield's birthday party at Stonehaven Sunday.

Thought For The Day
The wise men of our time are those who follow Christ — the light and the desire of all nations.

—O—
W. T. Fletcher Feted on Birthday

W. T. Fletcher observed his 95th birthday Sunday, October 19 at his home in Jonah.

He came to Georgetown in 1909 and has been living nearby ever since. He is still an avid fisherman and is very active. He was joined in his celebration by four of his children, and their families.

One daughter was ill and could not attend.

There were fourteen grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren present. Fifty-five members of the family were unable to attend.

Jonah H. D. Club

The Jonah Home Demonstration Club met at the Community Center Monday night, October 27.

Mrs. Wallace Giddings of Georgetown presented the program on her "Trip to the Orient." Everyone seemed to enjoy it very much.

There were fourteen members present, one new member and three visitors.

"Mrs. "Bill" Frymire and Mrs. Jack Gattis were hostesses for the social hour.

READY FOR New CARGO

This ship has been emptied of its cargo, and now stands ready to take on fuel and more cargo for further service. If this ship were to remain empty, it would be of no value and would be failing in the one thing that it was built for.

Man was created to be a companion to God, and when he does not join in worship with God, he is failing in the reason for his creation. Make your life mean something for God...

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

The first Homecoming for the Liberty Hill High School Exes in many years will be held today, Saturday, November 8, with many activities scheduled. The first big event of the day will be a football game, the belly bowl, between a team composed of Exes and another composed of local adults, which will start at one p.m.

The Liberty Hill High School Panthers will play the Lexington Junior Varsity at eight p.m. Saturday evening. We want to urge all ex-students within the sound of our voice and all other members of the area to come out and witness the Belly Bowl, and then take part in all of the other Homecoming activities. There should be something for the enjoyment of everyone during the afternoon, and then at eight p.m. the big homecoming game will be played.

The roast beef dinner should certainly be worth the money, so we'll expect to see you there at six p.m. in the School Cafeteria.

This is just one more activity in evidence of the new life that is obvious everywhere in our community. We can all be proud that ours is an active, growing community with a big heart!

In the game last week between the Hutto Junior Varsity and the Liberty Hill Panthers our team came out on top by 22 to 0. The statistics for the game are as follows:

Liberty Hill	Hutto
5..... first downs	1
29/200 yds rushing	19/30
3/5/114 passing	1-11/5
1..... fumbles lost	1
55..... return yds	60
3-102 punts	5-159
45..... yds penalized	10
3..... interceptions	0
324..... total yds	35

Donnie Johnson carried the ball eleven times for one hundred and thirty-eight yards, Eric Weems made six carries and gained twenty-five yards, Edward Brewster carried the ball five times to gain sixteen yards, Roy Montemayor made six carries for thirteen yards, and Robert Stephens made one carry for eight yards.

Donnie Johnson completed one pass to Eric Weems for thirty-eight yards, Roy Montemayor completed one pass to Edward Brewster for sixty-six yards and another to Mark Walker for ten yards. The defensive standouts in the game were Edward Smith, David Hernandez, and Eric Weems.

The Liberty Hill Junior High School Team was defeated by Hutto by the score of 22 to 8 with the following statistics:

Liberty Hill	Hutto
4..... first downs	7
74 yds rushing	132
0-6 passing	0-3
1..... fumbles lost	2
56..... return yds	68
0..... punts	5-75
10 yds penalized	20
1..... interceptions	0
74 rushing yardage	132

Steve Loyd carried the ball twelve times and gained thirty-two yards, Aurilio Montes made seven carries to gain thirteen yards, David Brown gained twenty-four yards in five carries, and Fernando Hernandez made one carry for five yards.

The defensive standouts in the game were Gary Dodd, David Brown, and Aurilio Montes.

The Liberty Hill Panther Band Parents will have a concession stand at both of the football games Saturday, and they will appreciate your stopping by.

The menu for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for the week of November 10 through 14 will be the following:

Monday
Stew, salad, cornbread, fruit, cookies, and milk
Tuesday
Roast, potatoes with gravy, spinach, fruit, and milk
Wednesday
Spaghetti, salad, green beans, cake and milk
Thursday
Fish - n - batter, slaw, French fries, cornbread, fruit and milk
Friday
Pizza, salad, fruit, cookies and milk

All of you early risers are reminded to tune in at six-thirty Sunday morning to hear "The Gospel Aires" on KGTV-FM.

Statistics show that in the first five years of the seventies lung cancer among women is more than four times as great as it was in the last half of the sixties. This is just one more reason to not become a slave to cigarettes — Don't smoke!

Leander man receives AF commission

Captain Ronald E. Keese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Keese of Leander, has received a regular commission in the U. S. Air Force.

Captain Keese previously held a USAF reserve commission and was named for regular status on the basis of his educational background and outstanding duty performance as an Air Force officer.

The captain is assigned at Grissom AFB, Ind., as a KC-135 Stratotanker pilot with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

A 1966 graduate of Leander High School, he received his B.B.A. degree in 1971 from the University of Texas.

Captain Keese's wife, Marjorie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McBride of Leander.

Couple takes over White's

Terry Lockett has acquired ownership of White's Auto Store on the square in Georgetown and will be operating the business with his wife, Sue.

Lockett comes to the store with two and one-half years of retailing experience from White's on Burnet Road in Austin.

Although his original home is Newtown, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia, Lockett first came to central Texas when assigned to Bergstrom AFB in Austin while serving on active duty with the Air Force. After completing his term of enlistment, he decided to remain in the area.

He and his wife plan to eventually move to Georgetown where they own property. They have two children, Sherry, five, and Michael, four.

Chase drops prime lending rate

New York

Chase Manhattan Bank cut its prime lending rate by a quarter-point to 7 1/2 percent Monday, following similar moves by several other major banks Friday.

A bank's prime rate is the amount it charges for loans to its most credit-worthy corporate customers.

Former resident receives award on retirement

Colonel Roland L. Perkins of Georgetown, has received his third award of the Legion of Merit upon retirement from the Air Force with over 33 years' service.

Colonel Perkins received the high-ranking award for his outstanding performance as commander of the 3750th Resource Management Group at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from Aug. 11, 1972 until his retirement.

He was specifically cited for his forceful leadership and improvement management procedures which contributed to the successful functioning of the complex logistical system.

A command pilot with 6,000 hours of flying time, the colonel is a veteran of World War II service and of 16 months in Southeast Asia where he was commander of Task Force Alpha at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai AFB, Thailand prior to his Sheppard assignment.

Colonel Perkins' decorations, in addition to three awards of the Legion of Merit, include the Meritorious Service Medal and three Air Force Commendation

Jury returns 10 indictments

The 26th Judicial District grand jury met for the November term Wednesday and returned 10 indictments.

They include four charges of aggravated robbery, two for unlawful possession of a prohibited weapon and single charges for aggravated perjury, aggravated assault, unlawful sale of narcotics and driving while intoxicated.

Ardell Kalmbach of Georgetown was foreman for the term, and Robert Cantu of Taylor was assistant foreman.

Others chosen to serve during the Wednesday call include: Emery Blackman of Hutto, Gilbert Zuehlke of Jarrell, Mrs. Anne Mehevec and Herbert J. Stoll of Taylor, Guillermo Pedroza of Granger, Mrs. W. D. Swift, J. R. A. Carroll and Eric Bartz of Georgetown, Robert L. Modre of Liberty Hill and Richard Alley of Leander.

The grand jury will return December 10.

Washington Report Congressman J. J. Pickle

U.S. Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle (D-Tex.) will chair hearings of the House Ways and Means Oversight Subcommittee November 7 on consumer problems in the sale of individual retirement accounts.

But I am afraid that a lot of consumers are buying a pig in a poke through no fault of their own.

"This is a good and worthwhile program, filling a need we have long needed to tend to. But unless it is done right and the consumer is fully aware of what he is buying, it could be worse than no program at all."

Individual retirement accounts were established by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (P.L. 93-406) passed in the last Congress. They are intended to provide a pension program for individuals not participating in company or union pension plans. An estimated 35 to 50 million people are eligible to set up such accounts.

Rep. Pickle is a member of the Oversight Committee of the House Ways and Means Committee.

might be the low cost to Georgetown citizens if the FmHA helps finance the hospital.

"For every dollar put into the structure alone," said Sloan, "the contributor will get back about $10 "in value."

Sloan also said the drive would be controlled and planned, with no paid employees or overhead expenses. The only costs he immediately foresaw were those for publicity.

Sloan also commented on Taylor's successful drive to raise $700,000 for a new hospital there.

"Knowing that Taylor, Texas, can get up $700,000 for a hospital is one of the things that is going to make me stay up just a little longer at night and get up just a little earlier to make this campaign successful," he said.

Board members agreed to meet with Compton again Saturday morning for a session to work out details of the fund drive.

Court session lively

Mysterious buzzers sounding in the police station and loud voices in a nearby coffee room livened up Wednesday's session at Georgetown Municipal Court as 12 defendants appeared and 13 failed to.

Police Chief Travis Thomas later explained that the buzzers were burglar alarms set off accidentally by lines crossing during installation of an alarm at a nearby store.

Officer Rudy Aleman at one point entered a coffee room adjacent the south wall of the court to ask someone there to lower his voice, which was making court proceedings barely audible.

Municipal Court Judge Timothy J. Maresh found six of 12 defendants guilty in misdemeanor traffic violation cases.

Jennifer Robbins was assessed $45 in fines after she pled "nolo contendere" to 20 charges of overtime parking and one of illegal parking.

Philip Lee Holcomb was charged $12.50 for making excessive noise with a vehicle; James Russell Dilts received a $25 fine for speeding; Ervin Otto Schwartz was assessed $23.50 for speeding; two minors were each charged $27.50 for possession of an alcoholic beverage.

Traffic charges against Charles Claude Shaw III and Randall Lee King were dismissed due to citation errors committed by officers Zefrin Kocian and Robert Hernandez.

Cases against Carolyn Stewart and Harry Franklin Sharpe were postponed, that against Roy Connie Cooper Jr. was "taken under advisement," and a warrant was issued for the arrest of Ruby Taylor on speeding charges.

Twelve other defendants forfeited bond ranging from $17.50 to $44.50 after failure to appear in court.

Miller collection reflects changes in tractor design

Louis, pointing to a body without a motor. "It had a radiator behind the engine."

"And look at that steering," he added "It's crude. Everything on it is crude."

Sitting by it is an old Massey Harris tractor Louis says was made in 1930. Instead of two large wheels and two smaller ones, this model is equipped with four medium-sized steel wheels which characterize it as having four-wheel drive.

He says officials with Massey-Ferguson, the company which took over manufacture of the line, called him recently to ask questions about it when they learned that the brothers owned it.

Ray, too, is an authority on the tractors that spill out of the Millers' workshop onto the yard.

A rusty, three-wheeled Allis-Chalmers model was built in 1918 he says. Its two large wheels were placed up front under the motor he explains, to pull a plow that attached between them and a smaller rear wheel over which the operator sat.

Louis then continues his description of some of the larger models which are kept outside.

"It has heavier gears, two-speed transmission, enclosed gears and chain steering," he says, noting the improvements of a post 1914 model of the Waterloo Boy, a predecessor of the John Deere line.

A Rumely, with five-foot high steel wheels sitting nearby has its special features, too, according to Louis.

"It used water in the carburetor and oil in the radiator," he said, pointing out incongruencies as compared to today's engines.

Farmer's tools remained without fundamental change throughout the greatest part of recorded history, but a talk with the Millers is proof that the situation changed after tractors were manufactured.

"Everybody was trying to come up with something different," he says. "And when they did, another company would go down."

He tells of a Molene service manual he owns which boasts in 1918 that the Molene plant was the "biggest tractor factory in the world." But innovations put it out of business without regard for its size, for in 1924 he says another company was producing the Farm Oil Regular line of tractors at the same factory.

Molene, however, didn't fall alone. Louis says there were 200 different tractor manufacturers in 1920 but there are only seven or eight today. Names such as Fordson, Oliver, Hart-Parr, McCormick-Deering, Indiana and Rumely are no longer operating in the fields, only in museums or collections put together by collectors such as the Millers.

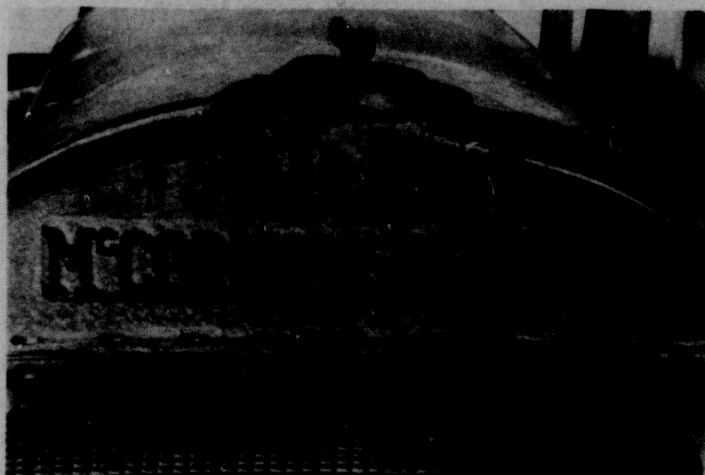

Although tractor collecting isn't an activity that everyone can enjoy, displays of the equipment have their appeal.

The Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association, to which the Millers belong, has met annually for the past four years in July for this purpose.

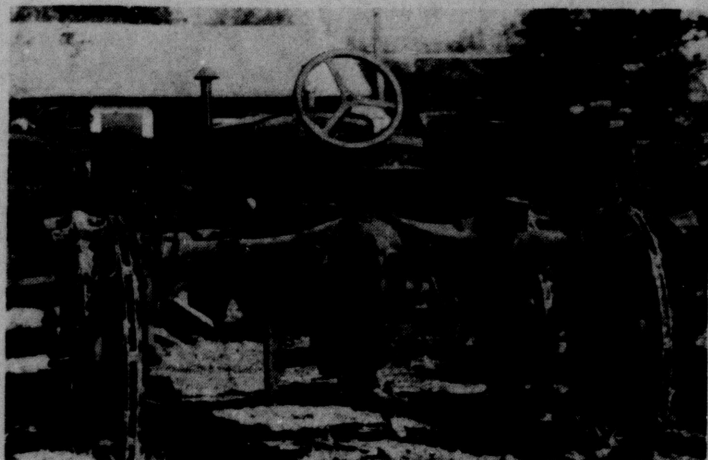

Meeting at Meridian, northwest of Waco, members fire up the engines of their old tractors to recreate the flavor of days gone by. Oats and peanuts are threshed, corn is shelled and ground and tractors race and plow. The young see how things were done and the old timers reminisce.

LINEUP — Some of the Miller's collection placed in rows, await Saturday's meeting of the Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association. Almost all of the association's 100 or so members are expected to be on hand for the meeting.

SLOWLY VANISHING — Tractor names such as McCormick-Deering, Indiana, Hart-Parr, Fordson and Oliver have disappeared from the fields and are now only found in collections such as the Millers' or museums. Many of the old machines, abandoned on the farm when newer models came along, were recycled in World War II scrap drives.

IMPROVED TRACTOR — Four wheel drive was one of the latest improvements for tractors in 1930. This Massey-Harris tractor, with four wheels of the same size featured the option.

THREE WHEELER — This 1918 model manufactured by Allis-Chalmers featured plow attachments between the two larger front wheels and the smaller rear wheel and operator's seat.

Compton recommends $350,000 goal for Georgetown hospital drive

J. H. "Buster" Compton officially accepted appointment to head the fund drive for a new Georgetown hospital Thursday night.

As his first act, the new chairman recommended a drive goal of $350,000 to the Georgetown Hospital Authority Board and predicted the money could be raised within 14 months.

Compton was tapped to become chairman of the "Development Fund" drive after he was nominated by a GHA steering committee composed of Charles A. Forbes, Dr. Robert McKay, and Wallace Evans.

GHA president Jay Sloan commented, "there are not better hands the drive could be put into," in naming Compton to spearhead the effort.

Forbes said, "we need not add any accolades to his accomplishments."

Compton admitted the prospect of trying to raise more than a quarter of a million dollars in cash contributions and pledges frightened him at first, but thanked the Hospital Authority Board for its confidence in appointing him to the top drive spot.

The campaign chief also predicted the project "will be easy to sell to the citizens of Georgetown" and expressed confidence $350,000 can be raised to secure a 2.95 million loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

The steering committee reported that conferences with FmHA officials in Temple recently had left them confident the loan can be obtained to build and equip a three-story, 66-bed facility west of 135.

Under the 1974 Rural Development Act, the FmHA was given authority to loan money for the construction of hospitals.

But FmHA officials have stipulated that the Hospital Authority must come up with 25% of a $2.95 million construction loan, or about $740,000, to fulfill the agency's "community participation" requirement.

Assets owned by Georgetown doctors, including the present hospital, the 6-acre site of the proposed hospital, and medical equipment will earn the GHA $426,000 immediate credit toward the 25% figure. During the time it would take to construct the hospital, GHA officials say the value of the credit would rise to $525,000, leaving the Authority approximately $225,000 short of the required amount.

The hospital itself would be a three-story structure east of 135 and north of R.M. 2243, which would accommodate at least 60 beds. Eventually the hospital could be expanded to include two more floors and up to 150 beds.

According to a master plan for the facility, additional medical buildings could also be constructed nearby, and a doctors' clinic would be built adjacent to the hospital.

Thursday night the Authority Board's steering committee reported that FmHA officials had said the loan is "99.44% guaranteed" to be approved if pledges amounting to the 25% requirement can be gained.

"Short of having the money in hand," Forbes said, "we couldn't have a governmental agency any more committed to helping us."

If the FmHA approves the loan, the Hospital Authority would pay the debt service with revenues from hospital operations.

Compton recommended to the Board that work begin immediately to launch the fund drive by setting a goal for the effort, a deadline for collection, and a plan of action to raise the money. He suggested the Board set $350,000 as the goal for the campaign.

After the meeting Compton predicted to reporters the money could be raised within about 14 months.

Sloan noted that a selling point of the project

Round Rock Chamber struggles to keep ambulance service

The Round Rock Chamber of Commerce has made a plea to the Williamson County Commissioners' Court to continue operation of the county's ambulance station there.

Commissioners hinged last Friday that the station, which is operated under contract with the City of Round Rock, may be cancelled in 1976 because of high costs involved in its operations. Their reasoning was based on figures presented to them which showed the station had fewer calls and a higher cost per call than any other unit in the county.

Through September 30, the Round Rock unit made 185 calls at a cost of $20,960.37, or $113 per call. Lowest was $37.45 per call made by volunteers at Florence.

The court's reasoning however, wasn't limited to cost considerations. They felt Round Rock could be serviced by the Georgetown unit in emergencies.

The Round Rock Chamber of Commerce feels differently about the need and notified commissioners this week urging them to continue to provide the community with full-time protection.

In a letter to the court, Larry Jackson, chamber president, said, "We consider the Round Rock station of vital importance to this community. The fact that it is growing so rapidly adds even more significance to the need for this station in the immediate future."

Jackson also noted in the letter that the community recognizes and supports the need for the station and pointed to a recent vote that will allow accommodations for an ambulance station in the city's proposed fire and police station.

He concluded, "We respectfully urge you to continue to provide our community with the protection of the full-time professional emergency personnel and equipment of the Round Rock Ambulance Unit."

The commissioners will continue their discussion of the ambulance at the next meeting of the court scheduled for 10 a. m. Monday.

Closed Tuesday

Several local businesses and the Georgetown Public Schools will be closed Tuesday, November 11, in observance of Veterans' Day.

Citizens State Bank and First National Bank and Georgetown Savings and Loan will be closed Tuesday, as will the Courthouse offices.

Since the Post Office observed Veterans' Day Monday, October 27, they will be open as usual for business Tuesday with regular deliveries.

Council eyes short agenda

Georgetown City Councilmen have an apparently simple agenda awaiting them for a regular meeting at 7 p. m. Monday in the Council Room at City Hall.

Six recommendations from the Planning and Zoning Commission will be considered, and the Council will determine whether the city's "fuel adjustment" charge on electrical bills will go over 100% of the base rate.

Asst. City Manager W. L. Walden said Friday no determination had been made of what this month's fuel adjustment charge will be.

The Council will hear the second readings of ordinances to establish a city-county zoning board for Municipal Airport and to allow Harold Parker to abandon a golf cart easement off Williams Drive.

Other matters scheduled for consideration include annexation of property between College Street, the MK&T Railroad lines, and the San Gabriel River; an Urban Renewal Agency request to abandon 30 feet of Third Street; two commercial rezoning requests presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night, and a request by Harlan Ford to construct a second building on a lot at 801 Country Club Road.

Review of the city audit for 1974-75, originally set for Monday, was postponed until December 8.

the passing glance

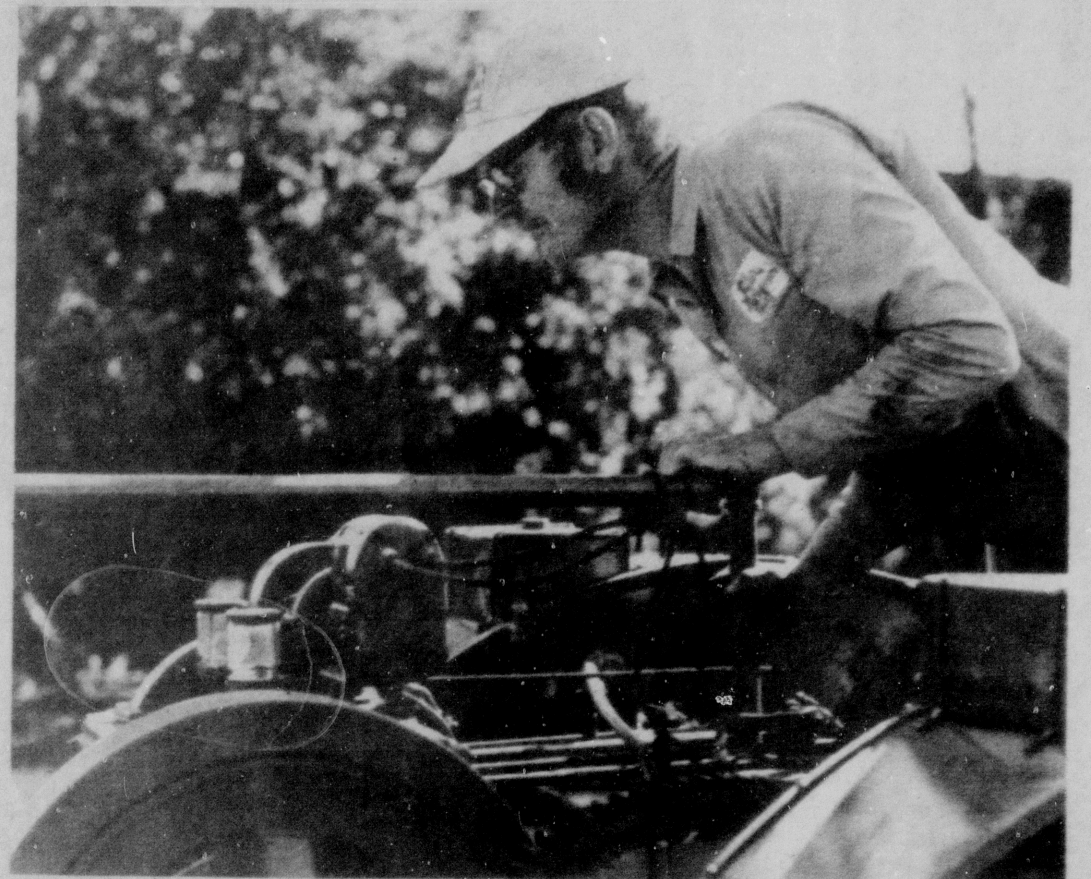

By Don Scarbrough

It appears the SUN has the same influence on the weather that it does the electorate.

We strongly endorsed proposition 5 in the proposed constitution and nobody voted that way. Then we stoutly endorsed a good rain and what do we have? Clear skies. We are undaunted, however. We endorsed Thanksgiving and Christmas and we aren't about to give up.

PIRATE COACH JOHN EDWARDS looked a little blue when I talked with him early in the week and I can sympathize. He has the toughest schedule facing his new and untried Pirates that anyone could imagine for a small college. Edwards has been a winner all of his coaching career, however, and everyone knows his Pirates will perform to the peak of their ability.

It is incredible how much it is costing the county (and customers) for ambulance service, which is an illustration of how a well-meaning government can foul up things. Here in Williamson County our funeral homes had, for the past fifty years or so, gladly provided this service, at no cost to the taxpayers and minimal cost to those who required the service. Then the government stepped in with incredible guidelines and suddenly the service is so expensive that not even the county can afford to provide it.

TRACTOR CURATOR — Louis Miller looks at the slowly running engine of a 1914 Waterloo Boy tractor he helped to restore to running condition. A collection of the antique machines accumulated by Miller and his brother Ray will be on display Saturday in Georgetown for members of the Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association. The association members will meet at Miller Mechanical Mart, 806 East Eighth Street, to view the collection — the largest in Texas.

Old tractor collection offers glimpse of past

by Wesley Yawn

You won't convince Louis or Ray Miller of Georgetown that the old tractors which sit around rusting on farms are scrap.

"They're not anywhere close to junk," says Louis, co-owner of 51 tractors with his brother.

The Millers, who operate a shop specializing in tractor repairs, collect the earlier models that once ruled the harvest fields, but are disappearing because of scrap recycling drives.

Saturday, the Millers will host members of the Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association for a meeting which is expected to draw almost all of the associations 100 members.

The chance to meet with other inveterate collectors to talk and look for parts will be one reason for the good turnout, but the Millers' collection of tractors—which is the largest in Texas — will be the main attraction.

Louis Miller says he got the idea to start his collection over 10 years ago after a local new car dealer bought a Model T. Because his livelihood is tractors, he bought an old John Deere model and thought it might be worth more if it could run. So he made the necessary repairs to put it in operating condition.

Fifty tractor purchases later Miller admits collecting tractors isn't for everyone.

"You got to get hooked on this stuff," he says. A tractor collector must be a mover who travels extensively to find any of the old machines that are fast fading away. They must set out, as the Millers do every weekend, searching for the few that might be around.

Louis has put over 153,000 miles on a 1969 truck driving through the countryside stopping at farms and junkyards to make purchases or acquire information on tractor whereabouts.

He says he loves to go off to a part of the state he hasn't searched before. Once he breaks the ice and gets people to talk to him, it's usually downhill from there. They may refer him to someone else, but if there are any tractors around he'll find someone who knows.

While the fundamental idea of internal combustion tractor engines has been basic, the body and other parts have undergone considerable change in construction and design. After collecting the old machines for 10 and one-half years, the Millers have become authorities on their peculiar construction and often describe them when showing visitors the collection kept at their workshop on Eighth Street in Georgetown.

"There's the first International model," says

WILLIAMSON COUNTY VOTERS joined the rest of the state in turning down the proposed constitution Tuesday.

About one-fourth of the county's 18,500 registered voters rejected all eight proposals by a two to one margin.

Thirty-two of the county's 34 precincts voted strongly against all eight provisions. Proposition Five (pertaining to financing) received the approval of only two precincts — Circleville and Coupland. Circleville also approved Proposition Seven (general provisions article) by one vote.

GEORGETOWN UTILITIES CUSTOMERS may soon pay more for telephone service.

General Telephone Company of the Southwest informed members of the Georgetown City Council last week that it will seek Council permission to raise phone rates in order to generate $106,392 additional gross income annually from Georgetown and Jarrell.

The phone company notified Councilmen of the impending request in a letter October 29 and sent along a 16 page study of revenues and expenses over a one-year period to justify its plea.

Carl Kinslow, GenTel's customer services manager in LaGrange, said Monday that his company simply is not realizing a fair return on its investment in the Georgetown-Jarrell area.

He said that GenTel has not yet asked for a place on the Council's meeting agenda to formally request the increase but would try to present its case to councilmen informally until after the November meeting that will be held Monday night.

THE BIG BLUE MACHINE — The Georgetown High School received a first division rating for the ninth consecutive year Tuesday at the University Interscholastic League marching contest in Round Rock. The band marches to "Where Is The Love," a special arrangement, in this photograph. Other arrangements on their program included "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "March Southerner," "Ghost Riders In The Sky," and "This Is My Country." Band directors are Rodney Klett and Ray Meza.

Nelson trial denied venue change plea

A motion for a change of venue for Crackerjack Productions has been denied by Special County Judge James Miles.

The decision was announced Thursday by Miles, a Taylor attorney substituting for Williamson County Judge C. L. Chance, at a pre-trial hearing. The hearings are being held for charges which allege that Crackerjack Productions, a corporation owned by Willie Nelson, violated the Texas Mass Gatherings Act in July.

Tim Herman, representing the corporation, requested last Friday that the trial be moved from Williamson County on the plea that a fair trial would not be possible. Two witnesses he called to testify on his client's behalf cited biased news coverage of Willie Nelson's Fourth of July Picnic as reasons why they thought a fair trial was impossible.

After denial of the motion was announced, the trial date was set for December 8.

Miles was appointed to hear the case after County Judge disqualified himself on the request of Herman.

Paul Harvey

President Ford, going around the country saying all the right things, still barely holds his own in the popularity ratings.

That has to reflect one of three things:
Either he lacks the magic appeal we call "charisma."
Or else we, the people, are just sick and tired of politicians.

Or could it be that we, like Pavlovian animals, really respond enthusiastically only to the people who promise us more and more something-for-nothing?

Democracy won't work.
This is not intended to disparage our country. Ours is not a "democracy," and it was never intended to be. In a democracy everybody votes on everything. That's mob rule. So you will not find the word "democracy" in our Constitution, nor in our Declaration of Independence, nor in any of our several state constitutions. Not once.

Ours is a representative republic.

In a republic we elect men to make decisions in our behalf. It was presumed we would elect our best men. Recently, unfortunately, we have tended to elect men our own size. And then we expect them to be something more than we are.

Americans were sobered recently to see a four-year study by the U. S. Office of Education which should put to rest forever the nonsense about "all men being equal."

It was determined that one in five adult Americans is functionally illiterate.

That means when it comes to reading, writing and arithmetic—such things as counting money, making change, understanding taxes and insurance and drivers' licenses—20% of adult Americans just can't cope.

In the findings, males and females were about equally unequal.

But 16% of white persons, 44% of blacks and 56% of our Latin Americans are functionally incompetent.

That's 23 million Americans who cannot even read and understand the help-wanted ads!

That should explain a couple of things.

And most of these presumably are still able to make an "x" on a ballot.

And that could explain a lot of things.

Democracy won't work.

Indeed, the average individual is incapable of governing himself—much less participating in the governing of others.

Now does "more education" necessarily guarantee better government?

Prof. Ivor Mills of the university of Cambridge is among those who believe we may already be demanding too much of the human brain, creating a brain strain resulting in depression which, in turn, breeds escapism—in any direction, from loud music to lawbreaking.

It was the hope of our nation's architects—themselves exceptional individuals—that our national destiny would be entrusted only to our most uncommon men.

We must seek and find and encourage and respect and elect those men again.

GOTHAM NEEDS CRAWFORD

Now that we have the constitution matter behind us, we can concentrate all of our attention on New York.

It is not every day that a 2 by 4 family weekly can tell the biggest city in the nation how it ought to run its business affairs. It is a heady experience!

WE WOULD LIKE TO SUGGEST to Mayor Beame that he call on Georgetown Mayor Joe Crawford for advice, rather than on Washington congressmen. After all, Crawford is running his city safely in the black. Compare this to how the congressmen are doing in Washington.

Unlike our state constitutional revision issue, the New York problem isn't likely to go away quickly. It will be here for editorial writers to mess with for years, or, at least, months.

Some New Yorkers are now singing a slightly different tune. A few are coming up with the until-now-unheard-of-thought that New York has the resources to solve its own problems, even if President Ford and Uncle Sam do say "drop dead," to quote the New York Daily News headline.

Mayor Beame isn't singing that song, however. He is still working, and appears to be making some headway, for massive transfusions of federal money, or at least guarantees. The Harris Poll, which contacts about 750 people throughout the United States and from this contends it can tell what the whole nation is thinking, says there is increasing sentiment for federal aid to Gotham, news that is bound to be cheering to the embattled mayor. On the other hand, President Ford says he'll veto any such bill and introduces guide-lines and safeguards that New Yorkers say are quite impossible.

Your guess is as good as any on how it will all turn out.

ONE THING YOU CAN BET ON—the country will be the worse off, thanks to political leaders who knuckled under to organized labor, minorities and the banking industry.

But, this too will pass. Perhaps there will be a lesson taught and learned. We hope so but we are keeping our fingers crossed. Undoubtedly, the fall of New York would send out ripples of consternation all across the land. On the other hand, a bail-out by the rest of the country would provide a clear go-ahead signal to bad and extravagant city politicians everywhere. To come out winner in such a complicated struggle requires a mighty innovative game plan and precise play execution, as the coaches say.

We can watch and wait. We can also drop a line to our national elected officials—Congressmen Pickle and Poage, Senators Tower and Bentsen and even to President Ford. These people appreciate individual input. Mostly all they hear is from organized lobbies representing special interests.

Television news studied for quality and impact on viewers

The Tin Kazoo: Television, Politics, and the News, by Edwin Diamond. Cambridge, Massachusetts and London: The MIT Press. 269 pp. $9.95 in U.S.; £5 in England.

By Leon W. Lindsay

The "tin kazoo" is your television set. It is most unlikely, if you live in the United States, that you do not have at least one TV. Edwin Diamond observes: "By the mid-1970s, some 97 percent of all American homes had at least one television set; almost one in every three households had two or more sets."

Books

No wonder the TV was dubbed the "people machine" and "crowd catcher."

With the average set in use for something like six hours a day, Mr. Diamond notes, the belief grew that the mass audience—the "Wad," Norman Mailer called it—could be sold anything via video. Convinced that with enough cash almost any candidate for office could "buy" an election by buying television time, Congress and state legislatures voted restrictions on campaign spending—most of which, it is assumed would go for TV exposure.

But wait, says MIT lecturer Diamond: the mid-1970s audience is not the audience of the mid-1950s (as Richard Nixon might well testify). Television today is more appliance than wonder in all those households. Research cited by Mr. Diamond, indicates that even though TV sets are turned on across the U.S., the householders are not necessarily "tuned in."

He asks: Is it possible television is "less than meets the eye?"—and that is the title of his second chapter in this well-reasoned examination of television news, its impact, and the form and substance of the news programs.

No dry research report, this small volume has pace and readability that should make it interesting to the "average" person. News media professionals definitely should spend an hour or so checking out its findings and suggestions.

Mr. Diamond is a visiting lecturer in the MIT department of political science and co-director of the MIT News Study Group, which conducted some of the research that bases this book. A veteran journalist, he still is active in both the print and broadcasting fields. The author's experience and insight give validity to most of his findings and suggestions, which are chiefly directed at network news organizations. Among them:

- It is time for TV news to quit taking the advice of "show doctors"—audience experts who treat news programs about the same as variety shows and whose advice has resulted in much cosmetic change, especially in local news formats. The executives and the newsmen for the networks know what needs to be done, Mr. Diamond suggests, and it's time now to act.

- The networks, following the example of the locals in at least one instance, should seriously consider lengthening the evening news to an hour. Assessing the performances of the three major network news organizations in covering some of the biggest stories of recent times, the author makes clear a major flaw of network news: the abbreviated, thus somewhat distorted, story. Only CBS comes close to a creditable performance in meaningful coverage of such stories as Watergate and the 1972 campaign.

Says Mr. Diamond: "The 'CBS News with Walter Cronkite' made the most visible departure from the older canons of television news; in the face of cynical data about the short attention span of the audience, CBS did long, more demanding stories touching on the presidential campaign."

MIT News Study Group research also clearly shows that CBS was the only one of the "big three" that gave immediate, lengthy coverage of the aftermath of the Watergate break-in.

One of the most interesting and perhaps timely of Mr. Diamond's suggestions is that the networks should somehow find time to move the evening news into "prime time." He argues that the audience would be there and that the impact of the news (provided some other suggested reforms are instituted) would be greatly increased. This reviewer agrees.

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

AUSTIN — "No, no, a million times no. We'd rather die than say yes."

That was the word the Texas Legislature got from the voters, who slapped flat the new and modernized constitution Tuesday.

The Legislature which wrote the discredited document in two years of hard work may be wondering if the same resounding "no" will be echoing against them if and when they run again in 1976.

Speculation in 1974 that the voters would turn out the Legislature which spent half a year in session and failed to produce a new constitution was smothered when virtually all of the legislators of 1974 who ran again were re-elected. Only one senator and four House members were defeated.

Now, perhaps, that can be interpreted as a vote of approval of their failure as a Constitutional Convention, to submit a new document to the voters.

If so, then will the voter reaction in 1976 be just the opposite—a turn-'em-out attitude on the legislators who submitted a new constitution which was so distasteful that only a bare handful of counties gave a majority vote to even one of the eight propositions.

And, on the other hand, the state officials who supported it so warmly can be grateful that they do not have to face the voters in 1976 because of the switch to four-year terms.

Defeat of the new constitutional proposals will mean, of course, that there will be elevations in 1976 for members of the two high courts, the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals. Had the judiciary article been adopted and the two high courts combined, it might have been six or eight years before there would have been an opening for the new high court. Defeat of that proposition means that Justices Martin Dies Jr., of the Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals and Charles W. Barrow can get on with their races for the Supreme Court they had announced early this year.

Of course, there is the problem of Associate Justice Ross Doughty of Uvalde, now serving in the place Associate Justice Ruel Walker held.

If Doughty should decide to run for a full six-year term, the two younger men would be up against a decision of taking on an incumbent, even though he is an appointed incumbent.

Of course, there are the 16 senators who were lucky on the draw and got four year terms in the 1975 drawing. But the other 15 senators and all 150 members of the House of Representatives will be facing the voters again in 1976 if they want to keep on making laws.

The list of those not planning to run again will be growing, since the prospect of an increase in the $128-a-week salary was dashed by the voters last Tuesday.

The reaction of most leaders for constitutional revision right after the election was that there would be no point in trying again for several years at least. But some went back to the idea of submitting one article each two years to the voters, which some conservatives have felt all along would be the better way to approach revision.

Others will play with the idea of asking the Legislature to ask the voters to call a new Constitutional Convention made up of citizens who do not hold public office. The experience of Illinois, Maryland and other states has been that the voters will buy a citizens' constitution after turning down legislators' constitution. It might perhaps be the old cartoon of "would you buy a used car from this man?" and the answer is that the public is more likely to buy from the public than from those immersed in the business of state government.

But decisions can't be made now. The voters will say what's to be done, in 1976, by voting for candidates who want to do what the electorate wants to do about constitutional revision—if, indeed, they want anything at all done about constitutional revision.

Indications are strong that 1975 was a year in which the voters didn't want to do anything about constitutional revision. At least, they didn't want to do anything like what had been proposed this time. You can't argue with nearly 900,000 "noes."

TWO MEN who had a big part in the success of intercollegiate football at Southwestern University spoke at the Sports Breakfast held at Homecoming at the University early Saturday morning. At the left is William H. "Spot" Collins, a former football star at Southwestern and the University of Texas, and later coach of the Pirates, and Coach R. M. Medley, right.

Jarrell School Board okays modifications

The Board of Directors of the Jarrell Independent School District approved some slight modifications of the school's football field Wednesday evening at its regular monthly meeting.

The modifications, which include moving the stadium's north bleachers and lights, became necessary because of the board's earlier decision to allow Jarrell football teams to participate in 11-man competition instead of six-man competition.

Eleven man teams play on a field that is 160 wide. The Jarrell field, presently laid out for six-man teams must be widened 40 feet, and upon the recommendation of Coach Donnie Brown, the Board agreed to take the extra playing surface from the north side of the stadium.

Members also agreed to have the north and east corners of the school's property surveyed and marked.

Jarrell will be competing in District 13-B for the first time next year. Two scrimmages and a 10 game football schedule are planned. Cougar teams will play in the district's South Zone with Holland, Hutto, Milano, Salado and Normangee. In the North Zone, Axtel, Chilton, Crawford, Bruceville-Eddy, Lorena and Valley Mills will be matched.

School district Superintendent A. L. Lytle told the board members that a recent decision by Attorney General John Hill wouldn't really hurt the district. The ruling said that school fees were unconstitutional.

However, he said it would require the district to absorb a $5 fee charged typing students for supplies and would necessitate moving driver training classes to the summer months rather than charging a fee for the course during the school year.

The board also approved the employment of two. Lillian Schwertner was hired for the school's cafeteria staff, and Alice Fay Oldham will be added to the teaching staff to replace Mrs. Charlotte Vancil who is moving from the area.

Gene Brown of Longview, Wilburn Young of Dallas spent several days in his Florence home.

Mrs. George Tucker and Mrs. M. E. Davis were in Killeen Tuesday.

Mrs. George Caskey was in Waco to attend a teachers meeting.

Miss Maravene Thomson of Austin was a visitor in Florence Wednesday.

Herbert W. Smart of Austin visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smart Tuesday.

Hutto trustees approve audit

An audit report for the 1974-1975 school year was approved by the Board of Trustees of the Hutto Independent School District Thursday night.

The report which examined and presented the district's financial position, was prepared by Harold V. Simpson and Company, a certified public accounting firm from Austin. It was presented by Marvin Kaufman, who represented the firm.

Other business at the monthly meeting included discussion of payment for repairs to an existing building and talks on the district's janitor and bus driver situation.

Jonestown R.A.'s present program National Week

The Royal Ambassadors of South Jonestown Baptist Church presented a program Sunday evening, November 2, at the church. The program was in conjunction with "National Royal Ambassador Week, November 2-8."

James Sites, a Pioneer, and Timmy Bryant, a Crusader, spoke briefly on "What R.A.s mean to Me." Jerry Harkey, R.A. director made the introductions. Bill Kreiger, Pioneer president, brought the message. He emphasized the importance of R.A.s and encouraged and challenged the adults of the church to support the Chapter.

The R. A. Choir was led by Counselor Leslie Dodd. Presentations of campcraft patches were made by Counselor Jimmy Brown. The program dismissed with prayer.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

PICK THE WINNERS AND WIN A PRIZE

Here's How You Play:

HERE WE GO AGAIN! It's football time -- and time for the annual County SUN Football Contest. If you're a Saturday morning armchair quarterback, you can enter this fun Contest and check up on yourself! Might even win a little money at it or a free theater ticket.

Here's a game to test your skill -- it's a game that the whole family can enjoy. Spread this page out on the kitchen table. Let everybody play. There'll be a new contest each week until about the middle of November. So ready, get set, GO!

- Win $10, $5, or $3 for first, second or third respectively.
- Next five winners may pick up a free ticket to the Palace Theater!
- Pick up all prizes and theater tickets at The SUN.
- The only notification of the winners will be in the following week's issue.
- See this week's football games on this page.
- In each game, check the team you think will win. (You do NOT need to indicate score).
- Unless all games are marked, your entry will be automatically disqualified.
- Then to eliminate as nearly as possible any ties in this fun-test, every entry must have the score marked on "The Tie Breaker" game listed at right.
- Only one entry per person will be qualified, but as many from a family may enter as wish to do so -- except employees and families of the Williamson County SUN.
- You may enter the fun-test on this page. Or you may copy the games on another sheet of paper, indicating your pick in each game.

- All entries must be brought to The SUN by 5:00 p.m. Friday or mailed with a postmark not later than 7:00 p.m. Friday of each week. The SUN will grade all entries, and The SUN's decision will be final and incontestable.
- Have FUN! And patronize the businesses who make this fun-test possible.

Games This Week

Put an 'X' in the parenthesis in front of the team which you think will win that game.

READY FOR New CARGO

This ship has been emptied of its cargo, and now stands ready to take on fuel and more cargo for further service. If this ship were to remain empty, it would be of no value and would be failing in the one thing that it was built for.

Man was created to be a companion to God, and when he does not join in worship with God, he is failing in the reason for his creation. Make your life mean something for God...

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Diabetic talk set Mon. night

Mrs. Lidde Gjerstad will present a talk entitled "Problems with Diabetic Exchange System" at 7:30 Monday,
November 10, at Stonehaven
Center.

Mrs. Gjerstad, a nutritionist for Texas Health Resources and dietary consultant for Georgetown Medical and Surgical Hospital, is aware of the many problems encountered by diabetics when they must learn to control the disease with diet or diet plus a medication.

Mrs. Mark Whiteley,
Georgetown resident and senior dietetics student at the University of Texas, became aware of the problem from patients while working at the Georgetown hospital. She said many diabetics had trouble understanding the food exchange program.

An organizational meeting for a Georgetown branch of Capital Area Chapter of American Diabetic Association will also be held.

The talk and meeting is free to the public.

Eagle Boosters meeting Monday

The Georgetown Eagle Boosters will meet in the high school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. Monday.
After a short business meeting, filmed highlights of the Georgetown-Del Valle football game will be shown with narration by the coaches.

The Booster Club is going to sell shelled pecans as a money-raising project. These pecans will be shelled at the meeting Monday and then sold. If anyone would like to place an order call Joyce MacEwan at 863-5811, Shirley Miller at 863-

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

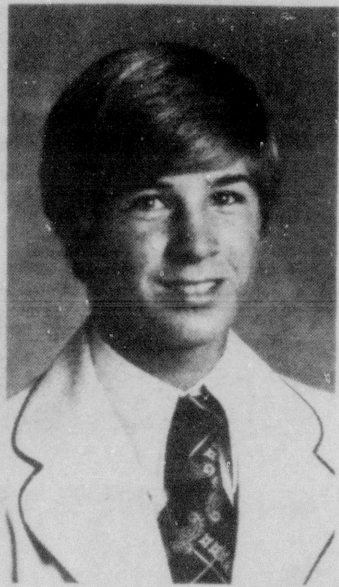

The first Homecoming for the Liberty Hill High School Exes in many years will be held today, Saturday, November 8, with many activities scheduled. The first big event of the day will be a football game, the belly bowl, between a team composed of Exes and another composed of local adults, which will start at one p.m.

The Liberty Hill High School Panthers will play the Lexington Junior Varsity at eight p.m. Saturday evening. We want to urge all ex-students within the sound of our voice and all other members of the area to come out and witness the Belly Bowl, and then take part in all of the other Homecoming activities. There should be something for the enjoyment of everyone during the afternoon, and then at eight p.m. the big homecoming game will be played.

The roast beef dinner should certainly be worth the money, so we'll expect to see you there at six p.m. in the School Cafeteria.

This is just one more activity in evidence of the new life that is obvious everywhere in our community. We can all be proud that ours is an active, growing community with a big heart!

RANDY HOWRY

Howry named Young Texan by Optimists

Randy Howry, son of Mrs. Billy Howry, has been selected by the Georgetown Optimist Club as Young Texan for the month of November.

Randy, a senior at Georgetown High School, has played football and basketball since his freshman year. He was on the track team his freshman year. Randy was selected to the National Honor Society his junior year and elected by the student body to the Student Council his sophomore and junior year as Senator.

This year he was again elected and is holding the office of first vice-president. His leadership ability became known his freshman year when he served his class as vice-president. He served his sophomore class as president, and vice-president for his junior class. He was Blue Wings Beau his junior year.

Randy is an active member of St. Helen's Catholic Church. After graduation he plans to attend college and major in pre-medicine.

Liberty Hill	Hutto
5..... first downs	1
29/200... yds rushing	19/30
3/5/114... passing	1-11/5
1..... fumbles lost	1
55..... return yds	60
3-102..... punts	5-159
45..... yds penalized	10
3..... interceptions	0
324..... total yds	35
Donnie Johnson carried the ball eleven times for one hundred and thirty-eight yards, Eric Weems made six carries and gained twenty-five yards, Edward Brewster carried the ball five times to gain sixteen yards, Roy Montemayor made six carries for thirteen yards, and Robert Stephens made one carry for eight yards.
Donnie Johnson completed one pass to Eric Weems for thirty-eight yards, Roy Montemayor completed one pass to Edward Brewster for sixty-six yards and another to Mark Walker for ten yards. The defensive standouts in the game were Edward Smith, David Hernandez, and Eric Weems.

The Liberty Hill Junior High School Team was defeated by Hutto by the score of 22 to 8 with the following statistics:

Liberty Hill	Hutto
4..... first downs	7
74..... yds rushing	132
0-6..... passing	0-3
1..... fumbles lost	2
56..... return yds	68
0..... punts	5-75
10..... yds penalized	20
1..... interceptions	0
74..... rushing yardage	132

Steve Loyd carried the ball twelve times and gained thirty-two yards, Aurilio Montes made seven carries to gain thirteen yards, David Brown gained twenty-four yards in five carries, and Fernando Hernandez made one carry for five yards.

The defensive standouts in the game were Gary Dodd, David Brown, and Aurilio Montes.

The Liberty Hill Panther Band Parents will have a concession stand at both of the football games Saturday, and they will appreciate your stopping by.

The menu for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for the week of November 10 through 14 will be the following:

Monday
Stew, salad, cornbread, fruit, cookies, and milk
Tuesday
Roast, potatoes with gravy, spinach, fruit, and milk
Wednesday
Spaghetti, salad, green beans, cake and milk
Thursday
Fish - n - batter, slaw, French fries, cornbread, fruit and milk
Friday
Pizza, salad, fruit, cookies and milk

All of you early risers are reminded to tune in at six-thirty Sunday morning to hear "The Gospel Aires" on KGTV-FM.

Statistics show that in the first five years of the seventies lung cancer among women is more than four times as great as it was in the last half of the sixties. This is just one more reason to not become a slave to cigarettes — Don't smoke! KEEP SMILING!

Leander man receives AF commission

Captain Ronald E. Keese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Keese of Leander, has received a regular commission in the U. S. Air Force.

Captain Keese previously held a USAF reserve commission and was named for regular status on the basis of his educational background and outstanding duty performance as an Air Force officer.

The captain is assigned at Grissom AFB, Ind., as a KC-135 Stratotanker pilot with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

A 1966 graduate of Leander High School, he received his B.B.A. degree in 1971 from the University of Texas.

Captain Keese's wife, Marjorie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McBride of Leander.

Couple takes over White's

Terry Lockett has acquired ownership of White's Auto Store on the square in Georgetown and will be operating the business with his wife, Sue.

Lockett comes to the store with two and one-half years of retailing experience from White's on Burnet Road in Austin.

Although his original home is Newtown, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia, Lockett first came to central Texas when assigned to Bergstrom AFB in Austin while serving on active duty with the Air Force. After completing his term of enlistment, he decided to remain in the area.

He and his wife plan to eventually move to Georgetown where they own property. They have two children, Sherry, five, and Michael, four.

Chase drops prime lending rate

New York
Chase Manhattan Bank cut its prime lending rate by a quarter-point to 7 1/2 percent Monday, following similar moves by several other major banks Friday.

A bank's prime rate is the amount it charges for loans to its most credit-worthy corporate customers.

Former resident receives award on retirement

Colonel Roland L. Perkins of Georgetown, has received his third award of the Legion of Merit upon retirement from the Air Force with over 33 years' service.

Colonel Perkins received the high-ranking award for his outstanding performance as commander of the 3750th Resource Management Group at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from Aug. 11, 1972 until his retirement.

He was specifically cited for his forceful leadership and improvement management procedures which contributed to the successful functioning of the complex logistical system.

A command pilot with 6,000 hours of flying time, the colonel is a veteran of World War II service and of 16 months in Southeast Asia where he was commander of Task Force Alpha at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai AFB, Thailand prior to his Sheppard assignment.

Colonel Perkins' decorations, in addition to three awards of the Legion of Merit, include the Meritorious Service Medal and three Air Force Commendation

RETIREMENT AWARD — Colonel Roland L. Perkins (right) receives his third award of the Legion of Merit and congratulations from Major General Cecil E. Fox, commander of the Sheppard AFB, Tex., Technical Training Center, during recent retirement ceremonies. Colonel Perkins retired from the Air Force after more than 33 years' service. Medals

A graduate of Eastland High School, he attended North Texas State University and entered the Air Force as an aviation cadet in 1942.

His wife, the former Jimmie

Lou Goldman, is the niece of Mrs. Carl Mayfield and Mrs. Floyd Bowen, Sweetwater. Colonel and Mrs. Perkins have a daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Goodbread, and a son, Roland L. III.

Jury returns 10 indictments

The 26th Judicial District grand jury met for the November term Wednesday and returned 10 indictments.

They include four charges of aggravated robbery, two for unlawful possession of a prohibited weapon and single charges for aggravated perjury, aggravated assault, unlawful sale of narcotics and driving while intoxicated.

Ardell Kalmbach of Georgetown was foreman for the term, and Robert Cantu of Taylor was assistant foreman.

Others chosen to serve during the Wednesday call include: Emery Blackman of Hutto, Gilbert Zuehlke of Jarrell, Mrs. Anne Mehevec and Herbert J. Stoll of Taylor, Guillermo Pedroza of Granger, Mrs. W. D. Swift, J. R. A. Carroll and Eric Bartz of Georgetown, Robert L. Moore of Liberty Hill and Richard Alley of Leander.

The grand jury will return December 10.

Washington Report

Congressman J. J. Pickle

U.S. Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle (D-Tex.) will chair hearings of the House Ways and Means Oversight Subcommittee November 7 on consumer problems in the sale of individual retirement accounts.

"Every day," said Congressman Pickle, "I pick up the newspaper or see in magazines or on television big ads for this so-called great new tax saving program, the individual retirement account.

But I am afraid that a lot of consumers are buying a pig in a poke through no fault of their own.

"This is a good and worthwhile program, filling a need we have long needed to tend to. But unless it is done right and the consumer is fully aware of what he is buying, it could be worse than no program at all."

Individual retirement accounts were established by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (P.L. 93-406) passed in the last Congress. They are intended to provide a pension program for individuals not participating in company or union pension plans. An estimated 35 to 50 million people are eligible to set up such accounts.

Rep. Pickle is a member of the Oversight Committee of the House Ways and Means Committee.

might be the low cost to Georgetown citizens if the FmHA helps finance the hospital.

"For every dollar put into the structure alone," said Sloan, "the contributor will get back about $10 'in value.'"

Sloan also said the drive would be controlled and planned, with no paid employees or overhead expenses. The only costs he immediately foresaw were those for publicity.

Sloan also commented on Taylor's successful drive to raise $700,000 for a new hospital there.

"Knowing that Taylor, Texas, can get up $700,000 for a hospital is one of the things that is going to make me stay up just a little longer at night and get up just a little earlier to make this campaign successful," he said.

Board members agreed to meet with Compton again Saturday morning for a session to work out details of the fund drive.

Court session lively

Mysterious buzzers sounding in the police station and loud voices in a nearby coffee room livened up Wednesday's session at Georgetown Municipal Court as 12 defendants appeared and 13 failed to.

Police Chief Travis Thomas later explained that the buzzers were burglar alarms set off accidentally by lines crossing during installation of an alarm at a nearby store.

Officer Rudy Aleman at one point entered a coffee room adjacent the south wall of the court to ask someone there to lower his voice, which was making court proceedings barely audible.

Municipal Court Judge Timothy J. Maresh found six of 12 defendants guilty in misdemeanor traffic violation cases.

Jennifer Robbins was assessed $45 in fines after she pled "nolo contendere" to 20 charges of overtime parking and one of illegal parking.

Philip Lee Holcomb was charged $12.50 for making excessive noise with a vehicle; James Russell Dilts received a $25 fine for speeding; Ervin Otto Schwartz was assessed $23.50 for speeding; two minors were each charged $27.50 for possession of an alcoholic beverage.

Traffic charges against Charles Claude Shaw III and Randall Lee King were dismissed due to citation errors committed by officers Zefrin Kocian and Robert Hernandez.

Cases against Carolyn Stewart and Harry Franklin Sharpe were postponed, that against Roy Connie Cooper Jr. was "taken under advisement," and a warrant was issued for the arrest of Ruby Taylor on speeding charges.

Twelve other defendants forfeited bond ranging from $17.50 to $44.50 after failure to appear in court.

They are: Maria Rosa Medrano, Angel Ricci, Eddie Thomas, Gwendolyn McKin Tittle, Thomas Henry Nelson, Mary Slade, Mark Walter Bethel, Charles Lee Williams, Larry McGlory, Anthony T. Lowe, Don Jefferson, Norman Eugene Mahan, and Anthony Polletta.

CHECKOUT — Lewis Miller adjusts the idle on an old Fordson tractor which is part of his collection. Special attachments he made for the steel wheels allow him to drive it on pavement for parades.

ANOTHER COLLECTOR — Ray Miller, at the controls of McCormick-Deering tractor, co-owns the collection of 51 antiques with brother Lewis.

LINEUP — Some of the Miller's collection placed in rows, await Saturday's meeting of the Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association. Almost all of the association's 100 or so members are expected to be on hand for the meeting.

Miller collection reflects changes in tractor design

Louis, pointing to a body without a motor. "It had a radiator behind the engine."

"And look at that steering," he added "It's crude. Everything on it is crude."

Sitting by it is an old Massey Harris tractor Louis says was made in 1930. Instead of two large wheels and two smaller ones, this model is equipped with four medium-sized steel wheels which characterize it as having four-wheel drive.

He says officials with Massey-Ferguson, the company which took over manufacture of the line, called him recently to ask questions about it when they learned that the brothers owned it.

Ray, too, is an authority on the tractors that spill out of the Millers' workshop onto the yard.

A rusty, three-wheeled Allis-Chalmers model was built in 1918 he says. Its two large wheels were placed up front under the motor he explains, to pull a plow that attached between them and a smaller rear wheel over which the operator sat.

Louis then continues his description of some of the larger models which are kept outside.

"It has heavier gears, two-speed transmission, enclosed gears and chain steering," he says, noting the improvements of a post 1914 model of the Waterloo Boy, a predecessor of the John Deere line.

A Rumely, with five-foot high steel wheels sitting nearby has its special features, too, according to Louis.

"It used water in the carburetor and oil in the radiator," he said, pointing out incongruities as compared to today's engines.

Farmer's tools remained without fundamental change throughout the greatest part of recorded history, but a talk with the Millers is proof that the situation changed after tractors were manufactured.

"Everybody was trying to come up with something different," he says. "And when they did, another company would go down."

He tells of a Molene service manual he owns which boasts in 1918 that the Molene plant was the "biggest tractor factory in the world." But innovations put it out of business without regard for its size, for in 1924 he says another company was producing the Farm Oil Regular line of tractors at the same factory.

Molene, however, didn't fall alone. Louis says there were 200 different tractor manufacturers in 1920 but there are only seven or eight today. Names such as Fordson, Oliver, Hart-Parr, McCormick-Deering, Indiana and Rumely are no longer operating in the fields, only in museums or collections put together by collectors such as the Millers.

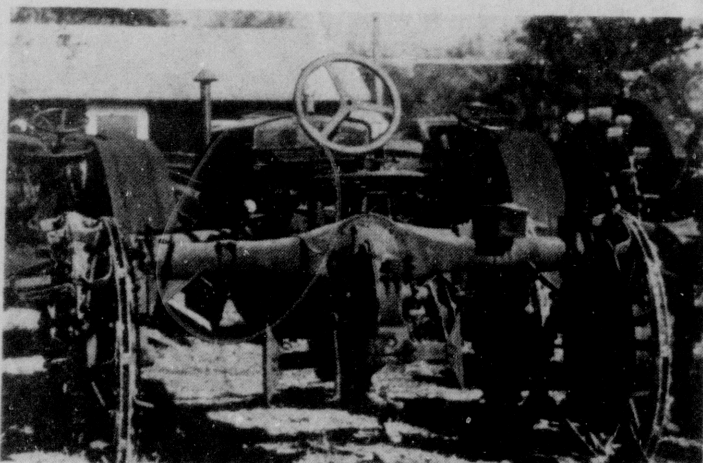

Although tractor collecting isn't an activity that everyone can enjoy, displays of the equipment have their appeal.

The Texas Early Day Gas Engine and Tractor Association, to which the Millers belong, has met annually for the past four years in July for this purpose.

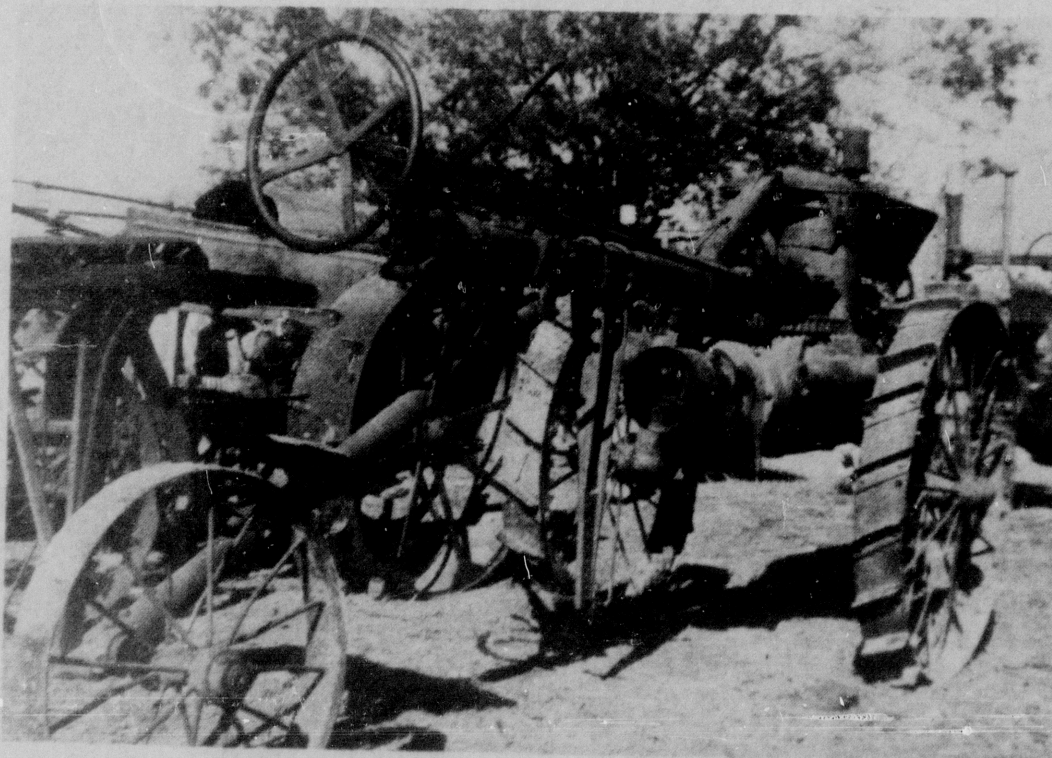

Meeting at Meridian, northwest of Waco, members fire up the engines of their old tractors to recreate the flavor of days gone by. Oats and peanuts are threshed, corn is shelled and ground and tractors race and plow. The young see how things were done and the old timers reminisce.

SLOWLY VANISHING — Tractor names such as McCormick-Deering, Indiana, Hart-Parr, Fordson and Oliver have disappeared from the fields and are now only found in collections such as the Millers' or museums. Many of the old machines, abandoned on the farm when newer models came along, were recycled in World War II scrap drives.

IMPROVED TRACTOR — Four wheel drive was one of the latest improvements for tractors in 1930. This Massey-Harris tractor, with four wheels of the same size featured the option.

THREE WHEELER — This 1918 model manufactured by Allis-Chalmers featured plow attachments between the two larger front wheels and the smaller rear wheel and operator's seat.

Dairy Hill Drive-In

Eula L. Morrison — Owner Bernice Biels — Manager

Good food and fast service are the bywords of the Dairy Hill located on Hwy. 81 North in Georgetown, phone 863-3678. As many people in this area have found, there is no better drive in than this one.

On their menu you will find taste tempting hamburgers and sandwiches, french fries, all types of cold drinks, and some of the best shakes you've ever tasted, all prepared in the most sanitary conditions with modern equipment.

The management of this drive-in has made it a point to hire employees who are courteous and who will give you fast service.

The compilers of this 1975 Consumer's Message Review suggest to our readers that the next time they are in town, they stop in at Dairy Hill for a tasty filling meal at little cost. We compliment them for their reputation of quality food and friendly service.
